RE Insurance Binder

Hello [name of manager],

Regarding the practice of requiring me to wear these face masks, or give body temperature or tissue samples for testing, I just had a few questions. I would like to know what insurance coverage I have if the intervention fails, if I get the disease it's supposed to prevent. Also, what if someone blames me for infecting him even though I follow your medical interventions, am I covered in this case?

What if wearing the mask for example, causes me to develop a bacterial infection, or lose consciousness or suffer organ failure or death? Is my family covered or am I covered for medical costs and lost pay? Can I see a copy of your insurance binder showing that I'm covered for this specific set of circumstances?

Is there an on-site physician I can confer with about the medical necessity and efficacy of these interventions?

Sincerely,

[your name]
